Dear Roger:

As mentioned, every opportunity to discuss our approaches with high caliber external scientists is good. Why don't we use a dinner during the planning meeting to discuss this particular initiative?

Best regards,

Hans-Juergen

Dear Hans-Juergen, dear Tony,

We have discussed this proposal with Rick and he supports our initiative to share the conclusions of the cancer symposium with cancer experts for their information and potential feedback. As you said this is a great opportunity to have a dialog on the science with external scientists that can add value to the work of both sides.

So we might put together a few slides which show the objective of the symposium and key outcomes re status of validation of cancer biomarkers and then have some of us approach key experts in the field to suggest a one-On-one discussion of our conclusions. Hans-Juergen, I could not find your slides attached to the previous e-mail, so please resend them to me. They may very well be all we need (we need to check whether they would be ok for external audiences and have them reviewed by Legal for clarity).

Then the question is who approaches who and when.

What about:

- Hans-Juergen <-> Rogene Henderson
- Hans or Tony <-> Peter Shields
- Hans <-> Steven Rennard
- Tony <-> Steven Hecht
- Hans-Juergen and Tony <-> C.C. Harris
- Hans-Juergen <-> Peter Witschi
- Rick <-> Neal Benowitz ?

The occasion for a meeting could be fitted into a trip you plan and that would bring you closer to the scientists you would like to contact. So the timing might be spread over the next 3-6 months.

If we can get 2-3 of those dialogs up and running, it would be a great contribution to our communication and science.

Please let me know whether you are committed to make those (or others) dialogs work.

Best regards,
Roger

Dear Roger:

Please find attached the slides of today's presentation:

You have been right in that we have not re-invented the wheel, and I doubt that this is possible in a field we all have worked for so many years and in which we probably have stretched the possibilities. Thus, this is mainly about setting priorities under the objectives we have today vs. those we had some years or even many years ago.

Discussing our approaches with Rogene or Peter or anybody of this caliber would certainly be good, not only to spread the word about what we are doing but even more so to have an opportunity for their input. I am quite sure that Peter has some different views on clinical biomarkers of effect, so this could be quite fruitful.

Best regards,

Hans-Juergen

Hans-Juergen,

Could you share with me the slides you showed today ?

Do you see a value for us to sit together with Rogene Henderson and Peter Shields (and othes?) to share with them what our outcome re the status obective of the symposium was ?

I briefed Paula re your presentation (which I thought went well). Re the planned "run-throughs" to anticipate and discuss potential questions from regulators, ngo's et al., we would like to participate.

Could you pls. include us?

thanks

Dear Kevin,

Roger is presenting the JLI communication plan at the NPC meeting this Friday. This is the latest version we would like you to review. We are all at the WSA planning meeting at Westfields at the moment. I am sorry we need your feedback by tomorrow. Please email your input to me and copy Patrice.

Many thanks,

Raymond

Thanks, Deborah for the clarification. I just learned that Kim is out of the office until after the holiday. I will check tomorrow how we will distribute for RD+E. Will incorporate your subject flags as recommended.

I liked the version Amy suggested much more. This is for MDs and scientist in the public health arena. Education is in my opinion too general. Why can we not just stay with what she suggested ?

This looks good from my perspective, including the December 2 deadline.

I agree that we should send a copy to Columbia: Steven Trost sent the letter on their behalf. His contact information was included in the fax I forwarded of their letter to Endovasc. Let me know if you need any additional information from me.

Gentlemen:

Per our call this morning, attached please find the draft letter to Endovasc. I have reviewed the letter and incorporated a few minor edits reflecting Kevin's and my comments.

Please let me know as soon as practicable whether you have any comments.

Roger: I leave it to you to decide whether you or Rick will be signing the letter. I agree with Matt Seiden's suggestion today that it would be good to get the letter out today if possible.

Brendan: Tapas pointed out that the letter from Columbia to Endovasc copied you. Would you like to copy Endovasc on this letter?

Thank you.

I am attaching the letter to Endovasc with the edits we discussed on the phone this morning. Please note that the name of the PM person who is signing the letter still has to be added at the bottom, and there is a blank for you to fill in in the last paragraph for the deadline you want to give them to get a countersigned copy of the letter back to you. Please let me know if you have any questions about the draft.

Welcome back. I hope the Florida meetings were useful.
